

Mrs. Archibald's Engagement to Prince Broken

English Widow Living Here Severs Her Betrothal to Louis de Bourbon; No Reason Given for Action

Sails Shortly for Japan

Fiance Came to U. S. Last Winter on Trip for Business Syndicate

Mrs. Beatrice K. Archibald, an English widow, who lives at 1038 Fifth Avenue, announces that she has broken her engagement to Prince Louis de Bourbon and that she is sailing shortly with a party of friends en route to Japan. No reason is given for the breaking of the engagement, which was made known in April. At that time it was announced that Mrs. Archibald and the prince would be married in a civil ceremony within two months and that soon afterward they would go to Rome, where a religious ceremony would be performed, either in St. Peter's or in St. Mark's. Mrs. Archibald, who is a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church, was to have been confirmed in the Roman Catholic Church in this city or in Rome.

Before her marriage Mrs. Archibald was Miss Beatrice K. McFarland. She came to New York from London ten years ago and she has many friends here and in Newport. Her husband died some time before she left England. Her home here is filled with works of art, some of which consist of beautiful pieces of sculpture of her own modeling. She studied art in London and continued her sculpture studies here under Roland Hinton Perry, in his studio at 51 West Tenth Street. During the war she was identified with the Red Cross branch in the Post-Graduate Hospital.

A. The prince came to New York last winter as a representative of a business syndicate that is stimulating trade between Russia and the Balkan provinces and the United States. He lived for some time at the Hotel Grenville and passed several weeks at Palm Beach last winter. He is a member of the branch of the Bourbon family, of which King Alfonso of Spain is the head. He took out his first papers soon after he came to this country.

Count Lazlo Sechenyi has arrived in the city from Newport and is at the Hotel St. Regis.

Mrs. Quincy Gilmore, of 121 Madison Avenue, is a guest of Mrs. William Loring Andrews, of 16 East Thirty-eighth Street, at Briarcliff Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Worthington Hine have arrived in town from their country place at Locust Valley and are at the Hotel Plaza for a few days.

Major Sydney L. Chappell, U. S. A., and Mrs. Chappell and her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Thornton, and Mrs. Clara C. Brown, sister of Major Chappell, who were on an automobile trip to New England, are in New York for a short stay, and are at the Hotel Astor, before going to their home in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ferris Simmons, who are traveling in Europe, will return from abroad on October 1.

Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly, Miss Ruth Vanderbilt Twombly and Dr. and Mrs. Allen M. Thomas will sail from England on September 3 on the Aquitania. Mrs. Twombly and her daughter will reside for a few days at their country place at Covent, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Weekes have left their country place at Fair, N. Y., and are at Southampton, where they are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Brown.

Harvard Oarsman to Wed

Engagement of Miss Abbott and Francis Lohrop Announced

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—The engagement is announced to-day of Miss Eleanor Abbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott (née Katherine McL. Tiffany), of 240 Beacon Street, and Francis Lohrop, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sturges Lohrop, of 114 Beacon Street.

Miss Abbott is a Vincent Club girl. She is one of the leaders of the young men and is active in the North Shore Summer colony.

Mr. Lohrop is a Harvard man, class of '21, and is a member of the D. K. E. club. He is a member of the Harvard crew in 1919-20 and on the Oxford eight this spring. In the World War he served with the American ambulance on the Italian front and won the Italian War Cross.

Both Miss Abbott and her fiancé recently have returned from extended trips abroad. The date for the wedding was not announced.

BRENTANOS
New York and 27th Street

Annual August Sale Library Sets!

To those desirous of adding to their LIBRARIES we offer our usual varied list of CLASSIC and STANDARD AUTHORS, in English and Foreign Languages, in attractive Cloth and Leather Bindings.

A choice and wide selection is presented, affording an exceptional opportunity for securing genuine bargains.

Inspection welcomed. No catalogue issued.

Lytton Strachey's "Queen Victoria"

4th printing, $5.00

Harvard, Bruce & Co., 5 W. 47th St., N. Y.

Miss Emily B. Pierson

She was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding, ten days ago, of Miss Jeanette T. Ross to James P. Vogel. Miss Pierson is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Pierson jr.

Invading Tennis Teams Chief Topic In Newport Society

Fifty Boxes Already Are Taken and Speculation Is Growing as to Contest; 3 New Dancing Places

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 9.—Much speculation is developing here as to the two invading teams to fight for the honor of challenging the American tennis team at the Casino on August 25, 26 and 27. Already fifty boxes have been taken by members of the colony, and to further interest outside of the summer set the Casino tennis committee, headed by Mrs. Barger Wallach, met to-day with a committee from the Newport Chamber of Commerce to discuss ways and means of increasing the interest in the final round.

Few opportunities for informal dances in the colony have been evident during the season, and not enough for the younger people, and so this week will see the inauguration of three new afternoon and evening dancing places.

The Casino, the Art Association, and Hill Top Inn. At the Casino the afternoon dances will be held Wednesday for the "suburb" set, but the Art Association's tea dance on Thursday will not be confined to the younger element exclusively. Mrs. Charles L. Hussey is to be in charge.

Dancing during dinner and the later part of the evening will be at Hill Top, for the first time since the war.

Mrs. Hubert Vos and Messrs. E. Pennington Rogers and P. M. G. Mowin are the judges in the diving contests for boys and girls at Bailey's Beach, the first of the series of aquatic events for youngsters arranged by James Brett Stokes. Mrs. Stuart Duncan and Clarence W. Dolan offered the cup for the first of the series.

Among those registering at the Muenchinger King yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Sayford, of Memphis, and Miss Everett, who is making his annual visit here.

Miss Annette Alger Bailey, of Wisconsin, who has been visiting Miss Kate Darlington, daughter of Bishop and Mrs. James H. Darlington, at the Corners, has gone to Nantuxet.

Mrs. George C. Cutler, Miss Louise King, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stead, C. Draper, Samuel Tuxier and Edward Draper, among those registering at the Casino yesterday.

Lieutenant Commander Albert Knox, U. S. N., and Mrs. Knox have come to Newport from Annapolis for a brief visit. They are at their Washington Street home.

Mrs. Lewis G. Morris, Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore and Miss Julia Berwind entertained at luncheon to-day. Mrs. William Storrs Wells has gone to New York.

Lenox Church to Hold Services in Open Air

Trinity Episcopal Will Meet in Wheatleigh Gardens the Rest of August

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 9.—Sunday evening services are to be held for the rest of August at the Trinity Episcopal Church of Lenox in the gardens at Wheatleigh, overlooking Lake Mahkeenau, upon invitation of Mrs. Charles H. de Heredia. Bishop Thomas Frederick Davies will assist the Rev. Latta Griswold, rector, and the full choir will sing.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenville Kane and Mr. and Mrs. James Otley and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Acton, of Florence, Italy.

Mrs. D. Emerson McVieker left Lenox to-day for Atlantic City for a visit to her mother, Mrs. Charles H. Bashore. Stephen Panaretto, Bulgarian Minister at Washington, and Mrs. Panaretto are at the Haller Inn, at Williams-town. Other arrivals there include Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Sinclair, of Princeton, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bullard, of Washington, and Miss Sparhawk Jones, the artist.

Mrs. Nina Hopkins Musgrave, General Herbert Musgrave, of London, and Colonel and Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, of Washington, left the Haller to-day for Dublin, N. H.

Miss Kathleen Vanderbilt has Miss

Miss Kathleen Vanderbilt has Miss

Miss Kathleen Vanderbilt has Miss

Miss Kathleen Vanderbilt has Miss

Miss Kathleen Vanderbilt has Miss

Carven Satire Adorns 2 Other City Churches

St. Bartholomew's and St. Vincent's Contain Whims in Stone Akin to Those Found in St. Thomas's

All Designed by One Firm

Leaders Among Architects Say Jovial Freakishness Is Not Breach of Taste

While feline glasses were trained on the dollar sign over the bride's door of St. Thomas's Church yesterday and shocked churchgoers were hunting around for the miserere panel where Lenine and Trotsky are depicted giving medicine to the Russian bear, well-known architects defended the whimsicality expressed in stone on the Fifth Avenue edifice and instanced the cathedrals of Notre Dame, in Paris; of Rouen of Rheims (before its ruin) as being replete with exactly the same kind of Gothic symbolism. It also was pointed out that St. Thomas's has not nursed its secret alone in New York. St. Bartholomew's Church, at Park Avenue and Fifth Street, and St. Vincent's, at Lexington Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street, both designed by B. G. Goodhue, are adorned with the satirical carvings and gargoyles that have suddenly excited the popular imagination.

P. L. Mayers, of the dissolved firm of Gram, Goodhue & Little, which partnership was responsible for the architecture of all three churches mentioned, said yesterday that the symbolism of St. Thomas's was designed to be a history of the church as well as the past. He pointed out that Lenine and Trotsky were given a place in the church when they first came into prominence. Within the main walls, supported by two massive buttresses, the events of the last few years are expressed in stone.

Lusitania Memorial in Stone

The sinking of the Lusitania, Allenby entering Jerusalem and the coarseness of the Allied nations are carved on the American eagle clanking the imperial German eagle constitutes another piece of careful stone work. In front of the boys' desks in the chance every profession is symbolized. The name of the church is in most closely associated with it, in some way linked up with the carving. This is the explanation given by Mr. Mayers for the presence of J. P. Morgan, the money bags, the Red Cross nurse, the Salvation Army lassie, the aviator, all the figures of modern warfare have their place with the saints of the past. The carvings are only the apostles are to be found.

Speaking in defense of his workmanship at New Haven yesterday, E. Donald Robb, who was head draftsman of the design, said: "So long as the designs are instructive and are not profane they are proper for a church. The designs used for the decoration of St. Thomas's portico were taken from modern Fifth Avenue types, but not from any particular building. They meant to show the world's man, the man of dissolute habits, the man whose life is devoted to business. The idea was to bring to the attention of persons of good repute that the church is a human being of that class as he very often is in actuality."

Mr. Robb pointed out that the artists of modern architecture probably have used the flora and fauna of their own neighborhoods for this decoration, and it was therefore proper that he should use the flora and fauna of the city of New York.

Horace B. Mann, of the firm of Mann & MacNeill, prominent architects, said yesterday that no one of his profession could object to the architecture of St. Thomas's and that the presence of gargoyles and whimsicalities in the way of decoration detracted no whit from its general splendor. He said that he was not sure that the things remained unnoticed for so long.

Upholds Sculptured Pleasantry

"I feel that in St. Thomas's a little pleasantry has been introduced in the way of decorative carving," he said. "Only the narrow-minded could see the symbolism and are probably mystified by the grotesque exterior of the gargoyles. The original idea of the architects was to carry the things in course of time decorative effects were introduced. The finest buildings in Europe are full of it. I can remember the Cathedral of Rouen and of Rheims. In Victor Hugo's 'Notre Dame de Paris' there are many references to these grotesque figures. And as come to the Middle Ages, the new houses of the Middle Ages have been copied. There also every little face and figure represent some particular person or thing. The carvings of Anson Phelps Stokes, Webster, in his dictionary, is treated in a decorative way over one of the doorways. It is something of a joke to see the image of Sir Robert Borden, then Premier of Canada, sitting with his feet around his neck on the stone caves of the structure."

It was recalled that when the Boston Public Library was being built, McKim, Mead & White, New York architects, argued for the inclusion of the image of the facade so as to tell the name of their firm when read downward. This caused so much consternation in Boston when it was discovered that the statue was modeled and other inscriptions substituted.

When the new Canadian Parliament buildings were being opened at Ottawa two years ago there was a storm of protest over the gargoyles, because they were believed to ridicule living statesmen. A great many persons could not see the humor of the image of Sir Robert Borden, then Premier of Canada, sitting with his feet around his neck on the stone caves of the structure.

Satin Coat a "Jinx"

Miss Marion Keefe, of Chicago, possesses a satin coat which, despite its beauty, she believes to be a "jinx." The garment has been worn three times and recovered each time, the last recently, when bandits entered her room in a Paris hotel and at the point of revolvers seized her valuables, including the satin coat.

The Tribune Fresh Air Fund

New Massachusetts lines up! New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Vermont have been sprinkling their green fields plentifully with "Fresh Air" hundreds of 'em. The season is just a little later in the Bay State, that's all.

Greenfield started the ball rolling last Friday by taking to its hospitable arms thirteen boys and girls. And there's one combination Friday to follow. The ninety and nine are received by their hosts on next Monday.

Holyoke Elks on Job

The Elks are managing the Fresh Air campaign in Holyoke, and doing it with a vim that makes the look of old campaigners, whereas, in fact, this is their first year in the fight. They're thoughtful folks, too. On the way to Holyoke they had a car, and they change cars at Springfield and then go on by train. But not the guests of the Holyoke Elks. Just to save the children the trouble of the change they'll have a car, and they'll speed them in joy and comfort over the hills to Holyoke town.

It's a great treat, a wonderful opportunity for twenty-five boys. Let our correspondent in Northfield tell about it.

"At the meeting in the Auditorium last Sunday evening a collection was taken to defray the cost of entertaining a company of Fresh Air children this month at the Mount Hermon Boys' School."

About $500 was secured, and on August 12 a company of twenty-five boys will come to Mount Hermon for two weeks. These boys will be sent by the Tribune Fund to Mount Hermon, and they will be received by their hosts.

"The entire plant will be at their service, if necessary. The place is ideal for the purpose. The farm, with its beautiful woods, sunny, sheltered; the orchard, the growing corn, the immense barns, the abundance of milk and vegetables, the campus, the gymnasium, the swimming tank and the lake, and the country, which the beautiful Connecticut flows, all make this a wonderful place for such a work."

Most of Them Want Girls

There's something about the fresh air that makes it so attractive. Fresh Air has only one grudge—a very gentle one, to be sure—against the kind-hearted people in the country who open their homes to them. Nine out of every ten of them want to go on girls, thinking they will be easier to get along with. But to date the invitations from Massachusetts ask for a large number of boys than girls.

Jersey is another state that is awaking to the possibilities of its territory for Fresh Air playgrounds. Half week, asked for numbers of guests.

With the addition of Holyoke's party, next week's total of outgoing "Fresh Air" has been raised to close to the 1,100 mark. By the time all these children have been sent on their way the total output for the season of 1921 will have passed by a few the 11,000 mark.

The country hosts are doing their part this season, with the best spirit ever. All that remains to make this summer a great success for the boys and girls of the tenements is that the money to keep the work going to the end of the season be provided.

Fifty-five thousand dollars more than has been subscribed to date is needed. Will you give a part of that sum—for the children's sake?

Contributions to the Tribune Fresh Air Fund:

Previously acknowledged: $4,066.08

In honor of Mrs. Minnie 1220 25.00

Frederick S. Pales 25.00

Sara K. Hughes 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

In memory of Miss Mary Pettit 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

John J. Schmitt 25.00

Johnston Died To Save Women In Line Crash

Brooklynite Made Wife Enter Boat, While He Stayed on Alaska Despite Her Plea to Die With Him

Remained to Aid Others

"There'll Be Time Enough for Me," Hero Replied When Begged to Leave

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

EUREKA, Calif., Aug. 9.—Two weeks ago, Mrs. Thomas Johnston, accompanying her husband, left their home in Brooklyn, N. Y., on a pleasure trip, taking them by way of the Great Lakes to Seattle and then on to Portland.

Today, Mrs. Johnston is a widow, and is at the St. Joseph's hospital in this city receiving treatment for an injured leg and bruises. Consoling her is Mrs. O. F. Tevlin, who, with her husband, was a passenger on the ill-fated steamer Anaka, but who was more fortunate in having her husband saved.

When asked to relate her experience she said:

"It is awful, too awful to tell. 'Al' was with me right up to the last. When the ship first struck, an awful sound could be heard, and a few seconds later, the large rock struck. My husband and I were asleep. We awoke and immediately put on a few clothes that were handy. I took my purse, which contained a few small pieces of jewelry, including my engagement ring, which now is dearer to me than anything in the world."

"We started for the deck, but failed to get in the first life boat, which capsized before reaching the water. Half of the occupants being drowned. My husband put me in the third boat, in which were crowded a number of men and women. I begged him to come, and told him if he wouldn't we would die together, but the answer I received was: 'There are more women to save. Stay with me. I will be enough for me. Stay with Mrs. Tevlin, and don't worry.'"

"Those were the last words I heard. 'Al' said, and the last I saw of him. At the time I was told that the ship had a wonderful vitality being of Scotch descent and a strong swimmer."

"Everyone is so lovely here, I don't know what we would have done if we had been taken to some place where such treatment would not have been obtainable. When we left New York, we could have had a first-class cabin on the California, having heard so much about it. We were going to return by way of Los Angeles, but providing we could have a darling bungalow, we were going to stay there. Everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Johnston was a pharmacist in Brooklyn at the time the steamer Anaka was wrecked. He was one of those picked up alive, but he died a few minutes after his rescue.

His wife, Mrs. Johnston, who was going to stay there, everything has stopped. For me everything is gone."

Gompers Says Labor Has Halted Its Opponents

Declares Capital Is Trying to Establish Industrial Autocracy in United States

QUEBEC, Aug. 9.—Labor has halted the "shock troops of its enemies," President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor to-day declared in an address before the annual convention of the International Typographical Union.

All over the world, about the time of spring the armistices, the labor chief said, capitalism made up its mind it must secure the master hand over the working people, and in the United States there has been a "premeditated decision to crush the spirit of the working class."

Gompers declared that capital is trying to establish an industrial autocracy in the United States and Canada, adding:

"The labor movement is a protest against autocracy, whether it be political or industrial."

After a stormy debate a recommendation that men be permitted to procure work of another craft and retain their typographical union cards was rejected.

Hospital Fund $263,500

The Downtown Hospital Fund now aggregates $263,500, according to an announcement made last night by the treasurer, William Hamlin Childs. Gifts from corporations and banks in New York began to come in yesterday, and this, added to a fund of more than $5,000 contributed by the doctors and staff of the hospital, brought the total to a mark slightly beyond the quarter way point.

Among the gifts for the day are the following: Kuhn, Loeb & Co., $1,500; Seaboard National Bank, $500; W. India Steamship Company, $100; M. P. Smith & Co., $200; Hasler & Co., $300; department of surgery of the hospital, $573; medicine, $500; urology, $500; roentgenology, $500; staff, $3,150. Other organizations which are said to have fulfilled their quotas are the Commercial Bank of Spanish America, Brady & Gioe and Williams & Terhune.

Birth, Engagement, Marriage, Death and In Memoriam Notices may be telephoned to The Tribune any time up to midnight for insertion in the next day's paper.

Telephone Beckman 3000.

DEATHS

ANDERSON—James E. In his 73rd year, died at his home, 1114 West 12th St., at 10:30 a. m. Burial at Greenwood Cemetery, 2471

WEDNESDAY, August 10, 1921. Funeral services will be held at the Oak Hill cemetery, 10:30 a. m. Burial at Greenwood Cemetery, 2471

BOOBY—John, 11 years old, died at his home, 181 Madison Ave., at 10:30 a. m. Burial at Greenwood Cemetery, 2471

BROSNAN—Samuel, August 9, 1921, in the 74th year of his age. John, beloved husband of Margaret Gaffney and father of John and William. Burial at Greenwood Cemetery, 2471

CHAPMAN—John, 11 years old, died at his home, 181 Madison Ave., at 10:30 a. m. Burial at Greenwood Cemetery, 2471

CHAPMAN—John, 11 years old, died at his home, 181 Madison Ave., at 10:30 a. m. Burial at Greenwood Cemetery, 2471